1. Purpose & Scope

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (“SEBI”) vide its Notification dated September 02, 2015 has issued SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015 (the “Regulations”). In terms of Regulation 9 of Chapter III of the Regulations, each listed company is required to frame a policy on preservation of documents.

This “Policy on preservation of documents” (‘the Policy’) is intended to define preservation of documents and to provide guidance to the executives and staff working in the Company to make decisions that may have an impact on the operations of the Company. It not only covers the various aspects on preservation of the Documents, but also the safe disposal/destruction of the Documents.

The purpose for effective and compliant preservation of data encompasses to:

- ✓ Meet the obligations when an organisation is required by legislation or another mandate to keep data;
- ✓ To maximise the investment of resources in data production when there is an expectation that they will continue to be available into the foreseeable future due to cost of producing them;
- ✓ To avoid the embarrassment of losing data when an organisation is identified as responsible for managing them.

3. Coverage

This Policy covers all information created, received, managed and retained by the Company through physical and electronic records including data on the Internet and Intranet sites, databases and emails.

This Policy extends to all locations of the Company including all its factories and divisions.

4. Responsibility

It is the responsibility of the respective Executive Director and the Heads of all Plant / Divisions to ensure the implementation of this Policy, in terms of managing the records and information of their respective Plant & Division, as the case may be. This responsibility may be delegated to an assigned employee who would be responsible for developing and maintaining a system of listing of the records and their respective preservation schedules along with its regular updation.

5. Policy

5.1 Records Appraisal Procedure

The records appraisal process shall involve making a considered and formal judgment, often after considerable research, that certain records have enough value to warrant a considerable and continuous expenditure of funds for preserving them. In general, the Company shall consider the following factors while deciding on whether or not documents are to be preserved. However, these are guiding principles and the Company shall not be rigidly bound by them. They shall serve as an aid for the respective operational / functional departments of the Company in making decision for preservation of documents:

- Whether the records are statutory documents required by various regulatory authorities, from time to time;
- Whether the information contained in the document is generally available;
- Whether the values possessed by the records is purely informational or of some intrinsic value; and
- Assessment of the user's need for the document – whether it is of active use, semi-active (not of current use, but referred to on occasions) or is rarely / never needed for reference.

5.2 Manner of preservation of documents

5.2.1 Methodology of preservation

The Company shall primarily utilize any one / combination of the following methods in preserving the documents:

- Department or function wise;
- Subject or topic wise;
- Chronologically;
- Such other method as the divisional heads/plant head may consider appropriate, so as to fulfill the following objectives:
 - ✓ To meet the legal standards for protection, storage and retrieval; and
 - ✓ To optimize the use of space and minimize the cost of record retention.

5.2.2 Storage and security conditions

The documents should be stored in conditions that are secure and clean with low risk of damage. Documents of non-paper format shall require special storage conditions and handling process, after taking into account their specific characters. Similarly documents of continuing value and requiring longer preservation shall require a higher quality of storage.

5.2.3 Duration of preservation

The minimum retention requirement of Company's documents under different categories is provided as Retention Schedule as an annexure to this Policy. The 'Retention Schedule' has classified the records under following categories:

- i. Documents whose preservation shall be permanent in nature;
- ii. Documents to be retained for not less eight (8) years;
- iii. Documents which are required to be preserved for a specified period for less than eight years under various Applicable Laws in force, from time to time:
 - Documents under this category shall be preserved for a minimum period, as prescribed under the Applicable Laws;
- iv. Documents which are of temporary nature and not prescribed for any specific period under any Applicable laws:
 - Documents under this category shall be preserved for such period as the concerned employee may consider appropriate in consultation with their respective Divisional Head/Plant Head.

5.2.4 Destruction of Documents

Documents which no longer serve a useful purpose, should be destroyed. This would free filing equipment for storage of records currently needed in the conduct of business. Destruction of documents can also improve operational efficiency by reducing the quantity of records to be searched in order to locate the needed information.

Destruction as a normal administrative practice therefore can occur when the records are duplicated, unimportant or for short-term use only. This applies to both Physical and Electronic Documents.

The temporary Documents, excluding the Current Document(s) where there is no specified period under any Applicable Law, may be destroyed by the concerned employee in consonance and mutual understanding with their respective Divisional Head/Plant Head.

However, it be noted that all confidential documents, shall be destructed only after the approval of the Directors or the Company Secretary of the Company.

5.2.5 Modes of preservation

- i. The Documents may be preserved in
 - a. Physical form or
 - b. Electronic Form.
- ii. The concerned employee who is required to preserve the Documents is generally expected to observe the compliance of requirements of Applicable Law.
- iii. The preservation of Documents should be such as to ensure that there is no tampering, alteration, destruction or anything which endangers the content, authenticity, utility or accessibility of the Documents.
- iv. The preserved Documents must be accessible at all reasonable times. Access may be however be controlled, so as to ensure integrity of the Documents and prohibit unauthorized access. Special care should be taken to ensure that the records which are confidential in nature, should be marked as 'confidential' and should have selected access as may be determined by the Executive Director/Divisional Head/Plant Heads

5.2.6 Conversion of the form in which the Documents are preserved

- a. The physical Documents preserved may be converted, whenever required or felt necessary, into electronic form to ensure ease in maintenance of records and efficient utilization of space.
- b) Subject to compliance of the Applicable laws, this will be done after obtaining prior approval of the respective Executive Director or Divisional Head/Plant Head.
