

With Paytm deal, Zomato spices up growth menu

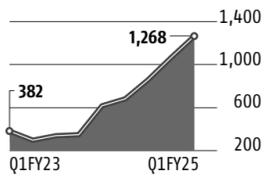

Vision of creating strong brands could make it a formidable platform, say analysts

Food delivery platform Zomato has laid the foundation for its third vertical of growth by agreeing to acquire Paytm's entertainment and ticketing business, said analysts on Thursday.

Zomato, which also runs a quick commerce business called Blinkit, will strengthen its 'going out' offering but the acquisition may take time to yield results, they said.

"Paytm's entertainment and ticketing arm will be part of Zomato's District app, which is due to be launched in the coming weeks. On a sum-of-the-part (SOTP) basis, District would hardly move the needle as of now. However, Zomato's vision of creating strong brands across food delivery, grocery, and going out could make it a formidable platform in the long term," said analysts at Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

Zomato share price rose 2.7 per cent to ₹267 in intraday trade. It, however, erased gains to trade flat. Paytm's share price hit an over six-month high of ₹604.45, rising 5 per cent in intraday trade. The BSE Sensex ended the day at 81,053.19, up 147.89 points.

Zomato-Paytm deal

Zomato's board on Wednesday approved acquiring Paytm's entertainment and ticketing business (for movies, sports, and events) for ₹2,048 crore in an all-cash deal. The deal implies a valuation of around 1x FY24 enterprise value/gross order value (GOV).

At the end of FY24, GOV of the Paytm arm was around ₹2,000 crore (up 29 per cent year-on-year) and it had 78 million ticket purchase transactions by more than 10 million customers. Revenue of the business was ₹197 crore with adjusted ebitda of ₹29 crore.

Zomato's going out unit reported annualised GOV of around ₹5,070 crore in Q1FY25, with 0.8 per cent adjusted ebitda margin as a per cent of GOV. Acquiring Paytm's entertainment business will bolster Zomato's going out business, according to analysts.

They said that while Paytm's business is at an adjusted ebitda of 1.5 per cent of GOV, higher commissions for exclusive events and cost optimisation could take this higher in the medium term.

Strategic fit

After the acquisition is completed, Zomato would become the second largest entertainment ticketing platform in the country after Bookmyshow.

Zomato's management expects the going out segment to break even in the near term as the company focuses on growing GOV to over ₹10,000 crore by FY26 (3x FY24). Over the medium to long term, the management expects adjusted ebitda margin to expand to 4-5 per cent (as per cent of GOV).

"The management's strong demonstrated execution in the past and absence of meaningful organised competition (barring Bookmyshow) makes us believe going out could be the next big success out of Zomato in the long-run," said J M Financial.

The brokerage has raised the stock's target price to ₹300 (from ₹260 earlier), with a 'buy' rating, factoring the deal's impact.

"Like Zomato's food delivery segment, the ticketing business has low capital intensity, which promises a high return ratio once it reaches a steady state," said analysts at Jefferies, giving a higher target price of ₹335 and a 'buy' rating.

Allocate 5-10% to banking funds to gain from rate cuts, valuations

SARBAJEET K SEN

The banking sector has been facing challenges as a result of which funds focused on the banking and financial services sector have returned only 9 per cent on average year-to-date, compared to 20.5 per cent fetched by flexicap schemes. Over the past year, banking sector funds have delivered 24.8 per cent, with performances varying widely. ICICI Pru Nifty PSU Bank Exchange-Traded

Fund (ETF) led the pack with 51.9 per cent return, while SBI Nifty Private Bank ETF lagged with 11.8 per cent. Investors have favoured public-sector bank stocks while overlooking private-sector banks. This category has 55 passively and actively managed funds. The most recent addition is Bandhan Nifty Bank Index Fund.

Causes of sluggish performance

A variety of factors have contributed to these funds' recent underperformance.

"Regulatory actions around the loan-to-deposit ratio (LDR) and increased risk weight for unsecured segments have posed challenges. Additionally, potential slippages in these segments have made investors cautious. Concerns about slowing credit growth have further weighed on their performance," says Roshan Chutkey, fund manager, ICICI Prudential Banking & Financial Services Fund. "Fundamental issues include lagging deposit growth and cyclical margin pressures," adds Sumit Agrawal, senior vice president-equities, Bandhan Asset Management Company.

Rate cuts to have positive impact

In the long term, banking and financial services funds are expected to do well in an expanding economy. They will benefit from the impending interest rate cuts, as well as the stimulus the economy may get from cheaper loans. "The banking sector is poised for better days, especially with the anticipated turn in the interest-rate cycle both globally and in India," says Santosh Joseph, chief executive officer (CEO) and founder, Refolio Investments and Germinate Investor Services LLP. "Lower rates improve credit and economic activity while reducing the interest-cost burden of corporates," says Agrawal.

Attractive valuations

The period of underperformance has made some banking stocks attractively valued. "Large private-sector banks are in a strong position within the banking space. Their valuations are attractive, and they have the resilience to manage potential challenges in retail asset quality, should any arise," says Chutkey.

Concentration risk

Sector funds carry higher risk than diversified equity funds. "Investing in a single sector rather than a diversified fund entails more risk. It's advisable not to go overboard on a banking sector fund or any other sector fund," says Joseph.

Investment strategy

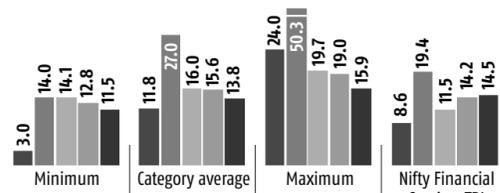

Investors seeking value may consider ETFs tracking indices like the Nifty Bank or the Nifty Private Bank. However, long-term investors with a positive view of the financial services sector may opt for actively managed schemes belonging to this sector. First-time investors may find flexicap schemes more suitable. They, too, allocate a significant portion of their portfolios to financial services stocks. On July 31, 2024, flexicap schemes had an average of 26.2 per cent of their portfolios invested in financial services stocks.

"Investors may allocate 5-10 per cent of their equity portfolio to these sectoral funds," says Agrawal. Chutkey recommends the systematic investment plan (SIP) route. "Retail investors should invest through SIPs rather than attempting to time the market with lump-sum investments," he says.

IPO vs NFO: How to decide which is a better investment option for you

Investors are always seeking the best avenues to grow their wealth. Two popular investment options in focus are initial public offerings (IPOs) and new fund offers (NFOs). The two cater to different investment strategies and risk appetites.

Understanding NFO and IPO

An IPO allows a firm to become listed by making shares of a stock available to the public.

Conversely, an asset management company

(AMC) may introduce a new scheme called a New Fund Offering to raise money from the public for the purpose of investing in financial instruments like stocks and bonds. Investors can buy mutual fund units during the short NFO period for a set offer price of ₹10. After the NFO period ends, the units can be purchased at the prevailing Net Asset Value (NAV) of the fund.

Key differences between IPOs and NFOs

IPO

Aimed at raising capital for a company, allowing it to expand operations or provide liquidity for existing shareholders.

NFO

Designed to raise capital for a mutual fund scheme, enabling professional management of a diversified portfolio.

Investors purchase units of a mutual fund, spreading their risk across a range of assets managed by professionals.

Accessible without a demat account, making it easier for novice investors to participate.
